SRAEL - PAST AND PRESENT

Israel, the Promised Land of the Bible, is today a modern, thriving, bustling and vibrant country. For centuries, the sites of many of the most stirring events in the history of mankind lay dormant beneath shifting sands and crumbling terraces, until the land was reclaimed and revitalised by the People of Israel, returning from exile. In today's Israel, cities, towns and villages, fertile farms and green forests, sophisticated industries and well-developed commercial enterprises have replaced barren hillsides, swamps and desert wilderness.

But the echoes of the past still reverberate amid this dynamic rebirth. Jerusalem, the Holy City and eternal Capital of Israel, retains its aura of sanctity and welcomes a constant stream of pilgrims of all faiths. The contemporary city of Be'er Sheva (Beersheba) stands at the threshold of the Negev Desert, as it did in the days of the Patriarch Abraham. Elat, Israel's outlet to the Red Sea, is again a busy seaport, as it was during the reign of King Solomon.

Besides its religious and historical sites, Israel has much to offer the tourist - vast stretches of clean, sunny beaches. modern cities and hotels, kibbutzim (collective villages), theatres and nightclubs, health resorts and colourful markets - all within a compact geographic microcosm: only a few hours' travelling time separates the sun-warmed seashores and the snow-capped mountains, the lush forests and the scenic desertscapes. Israel is indeed a rich and varied bouquet of attractions.

HE STATE OF ISRAEL

The independent State of Israel was proclaimed on May 14, 1948. Israel is a parliamentary democracy. Its 120-member unicameral legislature, the Knesset, is elected by universal suffrage according to the proportional representation system. The government is administered by the Cabinet, headed by the Prime Minister. The official Head of State is the President, elected by the Knesset for a five-year term.

JEOGRAPHY

Israel is a Middle Eastern continental crossroads, bounded by the Mediterranean Sea to the west, the Great Syrian-African Rift to the east and the Red Sea to the south, sharing its borders with Lebanon, Syria, Jordan and

The northern and central part of Israel, where most of the population is concentrated, is divided into three distinct longitudinal sectors:

The Coastal Plain, to the west, including the major urban centres of Tel Aviv and Haifa;

The Valley Region, to the east, with the Jordan River linking the two inland seas (the Sea of Galilee and the Dead

The mountain range in central Israel, incorporating the Hills of Galilee, Samaria and Judea, including the capital, Jerusalem.

In the northeast rise the Golan Heights and snow-capped Mt. Hermon, while the Southern Region comprises the Negev and Arava Deserts, which constitute much of the country's land area, including Be'er Sheva, capital of the Negev, and Elat on the Red Sea.

Altitudes vary from 2,224 m. (7,296 ft.) at Mt. Hermon to -392 m. (-1.286 ft.) at the Dead Sea, the lowest spot on earth.

Israel enjoys long, warm, dry summers (April-October) and generally mild winters (November-March), with somewhat drier, cooler weather in hilly regions, such as Jerusalem and Safed. Even in winter, spells of rain are interspersed with brilliant sunshine (see Table 1: Average Temperatures in the Ready Reference Guide, p. 40).

POPULATION

As of 1993, Israel had a population of nearly five million persons, comprising a Jewish majority and sizable communities of Moslems, Christians, Druze and other minorities.

LANGUAGES

Hebrew, the revitalised language of the Bible, is the official language of Israel, along with Arabic. English, the most common second language, is a mandatory subject at school. French, Spanish, German, Yiddish, Russian,

Polish and Hungarian are also widely spoken, and local and international newspapers and periodicals in a variety of languages are readily available. All street and road signs and most commercial signs are in Hebrew, Arabic and English.

the handicapped. Milbat — The Advisory Centre for the Disabled at Sheba Medical Centre in Tel Aviv (Tel: (03) 530-3739), will be pleased to answer visitors' questions. The Yad Sarah Organisation, with branches located throughout Israel, provides wheelchairs, crutches and other medical appliances on loan, free of charge (a small deposit is requested). For more specific information, contact the organisation's main office in Jerusalem, Tel: (02) 244242.

HOTELS

Israel has over 300 hotels, offering a wide choice of accommodations to suit all tastes, purposes and budgets, ranging from small, simple facilities to five-star luxury establishments, with prices varying according to grade and season. Hotel rates are quoted in U.S. dollars and do not include the 15% service charge.

KIBBUTZHOTELS

The kibbutz (collective village) is a uniquely Israeli social experience, in which all property is collectively-owned and members receive no salaries, but are provided with housing, education for their children, medical services, social amenities and other necessities. Most are essentially agricultural settlements, but many are shifting to a more industrially-oriented economy. There are about 250 kibbutzim throughout Israel.

Several kibbutzim, mostly in northern and central Israel, have established hotels on the premises, providing visitors with a close view of this world-renowned lifestyle. Kibbutz hotels are graded as three or four-star establishments. They offer guests the opportunity for a relaxed, informal holiday in delightful rural surroundings. Some present special evening programmes about the kibbutz experience. For further information and a special tour of Israel's kibbutzim and kibbutz hotels, contact any Israel Government Tourist Office (IGTO) abroad or Tourist Information Office (TIO) in Israel (see p. 36), or Kibbutz Hotels, 90 Ben-Yehuda Street, P.O.Box 3193, 61031 Tel Aviv, Tel: (03) 524-6161, Fax: (03) 527-8088.

Holiday villages

Excellent accommodation is available at Israel's holiday resort villages. They offer a wide variety of water sports, including swimming, water-skiing, skin-diving and sailing, as well as horseback riding, tennis, a full touring programme and evening entertainment. Predominantly geared to the younger set, with emphasis on open-air life and informality, most villages are open during the summer months only.

YOUTHHOSTELS

The Israel Youth Hostels Association (IYHA), affiliated with the International Youth Hostels Association, operates some 30 youth hostels throughout the country for guests of all ages. All offer dormitory accommodations and most also provide meals and self-service kitchen facilities. Some hostels also provide family accommodation for parents accompanied by at least one child. Individual reservations should be booked directly at specific hostels and group reservations with the IYHA.

The IYHA also arranges individual package tours, called 'Israel on the Youth Hostel Trail,' for 14, 21 or 28 days. These include nights in any of 25 hostels, with breakfast and dinner, unlimited bus travel, a half-day guided tour, free admission to National Parks, a map and other informative material.

For further information, contact the Israel Youth Hostels

Association, 3 Dorot Rishonim Street, 91009 Jerusalem, Tel: (02) 252706, FAX: (02) 250676. A youth hostels brochure is available at all IGTOs and TIOs (see p. 36).

FIELD SCHOOLS

The Society for the Protection of Nature in Israel (SPNI) operates a system of 26 field schools throughout Israel, each specialising in the natural history and ecology of its environment. Most also have overnight accommodations for visitors, including a dining room and other services. The field schools, generally located far from densely-populated regions, also offer a wide variety of unconventional, enlightening and scenic desert and mountain tours. For further information and bookings, contact the SPNI Tourist Service, 4 Hashefela Street, 66183 Tel Aviv, Tel: (03) 537-4425. FAX: (03) 383940.

CAMPING

Israel's outstanding campsites, situated throughout the country, are ideal bases for regional touring. They offer full sanitary facilities, electric current, restaurants and/or food shops, telephones, postal services, first aid, shaded picnic and campfire areas, on-site or nearby swimming and round-the-clock security.

All campgrounds have special areas for pitching tents, as well as cabins for hire. Most have caravans available and some offer rooms to let. They can be reached by bus, but all are open to private cars and caravans.

Campsites offer purchase vouchers for 7, 14, 21 and 28 day programmes, entitling participants to overnights at 16 campgrounds all over Israel (in tents, cabins, caravans or vacation cottages), a continental breakfast and unlimited bus travel or auto rental discounts.

For site locations, rates, bookings and other details, contact the Israel Camping Organisation, 22100 Nahariyya. Tel: (04) 925392. A camping leaflet is available at any IGTO or TIO (see p. 36).

ROOMS FOR RENT

An increasing number of Israel's rural settlements (kibbutzim and moshavim) are supplementing their incomes by offering rooms for rent at reasonable prices. Please contact your nearest IGTO or TIO (see p. 36) for up-to-date

HEALTH RESORTS

A rare combination of unique therapeutic factors — the mineral-rich Dead Sea, therapeutic mud, sulphur thermal mineral springs and a mild, sunny and extremely dry climate — have made certain areas of Israel excellent year-round health resorts, internationally renowned since ancient times.

Most health resorts are centred in two areas: the Sea of Galilee (-220 m. or -655 ft.) and the Dead Sea (-392 m. or -1,286 ft.). Offering a wide range of accommodations and equipped with modern facilities, they provide a choice of treatments for a variety of ailments and conditions:

The Tiberias Hot Springs, on the Sea of Galilee, for treatment of muscular and joint diseases, traumatic disturbances and sinusitis.

Zohar Hot Springs — Three therapeutic centres at Neve Zohar on the Dead Sea, for the treatment of muscular and joint diseases, traumatic disturbances, allergies (especially those affecting breathing passages) and skin diseases.

Yesha Hot Springs — On the Dead Sea, south of Kibbutz En

Gedi, for the treatment of muscular and joint diseases.

En Bokek — On the Dead Sea, an international centre for the treatment of psoriasis.

Arad — A desert town in the Judaean Hills, 620 m. (2,034 ft.) above sea level, about half an hour from the Dead Sea. Arad's cool, dry and pollen-free air make it an ideal resort for people suffering from asthma, allergies and breathing difficulties. Hame Yoav Thermal Mineral Baths: A recently-opened health spa at Kibbutz Sde Yoav, near Ashqelon. A constant stream of water rich in health-promoting minerals flows into a series of shallow pools, providing comfortable bathing facilities at varving temperatures. Tel: (07) 721245.

A special booklet and further information are available at IGTOs and TIOs (see p. 36).

CHRISTIAN HOSPICES

Christian pilgrims who arrive in Jerusalem late at night and have no prearranged accomodation may find board and lodging, at reasonable prices, in hospices of various denominations. For information contact the Jerusalem IGTO, 24 King George Street, Jerusalem, Tel: (02) 754888). Additional information on hospices and church services may be obtained from IGTOs and TIOs (see p. 36) or the Israel Pilgrimage Committee, P.O.Box 1018, 91009 Jerusalem.

ORGANISED TOURS

Numerous organised tours, mostly in air-conditioned buses or minibuses, are conducted by licenced tour operators. Itineraries and prices are determined in accordance with Ministry of Tourism guidelines to ensure a full sightseeing programme in maximum comfort. Half-day, full-day and longer tours are available, some combining flying with road travel. Tours depart regularly from major cities, as well as from popular resort areas during peak season. All organised tours are accompanied by experienced, licenced, multilingual guides, identified by an official emblem bearing the words "Licenced Tourist Guide."

Smaller groups may hire a licenced driver-guide and a special touring limousine or minibus, identified by the red Ministry of Tourism emblem.

Full details of itineraries, prices, schedules and the like are available at travel agencies, tour companies, IGTOs and TIOs (see p. 36).

Major public institutions and organisations, such as WIZO, Hadassah, universities and the Knesset (Parliament), conduct free guided tours of their facilities. Walking tours of the larger cities are arranged by the municipalities. Further information is available at any IGTO or TIO (see p. 36).

ON YOUR OWN — INLAND TRANSPORTATION

Buses

Buses are the most popular means of transport throughout Israel for both urban and inter-city travel. The Egged Bus Cooperative operates nearly all inter-city bus lines, providing urban service in most cities and towns as well (the greater Tel Aviv area is serviced by the Dan Cooperative and independent bus companies operate in Be'er Sheva and Nazareth). Fares are reasonably-priced and service is regular. Most bus lines do not operate on the Sabbath (Friday evening to Saturday night) and on major Jewish Holidays (see "The Sabbath and Holidays," p. 26).

Students are eligible for discount fares on interurban bus routes on presentation of an International Student Card. Special monthly tickets are available for Egged's urban bus lines, as well as "Israbus" passes, valid on all Egged bus lines, for periods of 7, 14, 21 and 30 days. Tickets may be obtained at any Egged Tours office.

For information concerning schedules, fares, routes, etc., call Egged's toll-free number — 177-022-5555 — from anywhere in Israel.

Taxis

Most taxis (called 'special' taxis in the local vernacular) are equipped with two-way radios and may be summoned by telephone or hailed directly in the street. All urban taxis are equipped with meters and are required by law to operate them. There are three distinct fare schedules, as indicated on the meter: (0) Telephone surcharge (to passenger pick-up point); (1) Regular fare and (2) Fare + 25% surcharge for night (9:00 PM to 5:30 AM) and Sabbath and holiday service. Interurban fares follow an official price list which the driver must present on request. Passengers may request a printed receipt after paying the fare.

Shared taxi (Hebrew: sherut) service, at a fixed price per passenger, is available between major cities and on certain urban routes as well.

These shops and others carry a wide variety of suggested gifts, ranging from exclusive jewellery and diamonds to Oriental carpets; from fashionable ladies' wear to elegant furs; from smart leather goods to modern paintings; antiques and contem-porary ceramics, as well as embroidery, batiks and countless other items. Visitors will also find all daily necessities readily available.

There are duty-free shops at Ben-Gurion, Elat and Ovda International Airports.

Shopping Hours

Most shops are open daily, Sunday through Thursday, from 9:00 AM to 7:00 PM, although some close for a mid-day break between 1:00 and 4:00 PM. On Fridays and the eves of major Jewish Holidays, shops are open in the morning and close early in the afternoon. Moslem-owned establishments are closed on Fridays and Christian shops on Sundays.

Antiques are defined by law as man-made objects fashioned before 1700 AD. Such items may not be taken out of Israel (whether personally or by mail) without the written approval of the Director of the Antiquities Authority. A 10% export fee is levied on the purchase price. Please note that the Authority cannot accept responsibility for authenticity of antiques. For further details, contact:

The Antiquities Authority Rockefeller Museum P.O. Box 586 91004 Jerusalem Tel: (02) 292627; (02) 292607 FAX: (02) 292628

FOOD AND RESTAURANTS Cuisine

Israel's many fine restaurants, snack bars and fast food establishments offer the widest possible variety of exotic and familiar dishes. Traditional Middle Eastern delights vie for popularity with exquisite Continental collations, not to mention the ever-present hot dogs, hamburgers and pizza. Fruits and vegetables are plentiful all year round, a wide range of dairy products is available to please every palate and the local wines and spirits are world-renowned for their superior quality and delicate flavour. Menus are generally printed in Hebrew and English. Restaurants are required by law to display prices prominently at the entrance to the premises. If a service charge is not included in the bill, a 10% tip is generally recommended.

Special Diets

Hotels and restaurants cater to visitors with special dietary restrictions, such as low-salt or low-fat diets, vegetarian meals, etc. Health food shops may be found in major cities and many packaged products carry precise nutritional data. Tap water in Israel is perfectly safe for drinking.

Keeping Kosher

According to Jewish ritual law, certain foods, such as pork and shellfish, are prohibited, and meat and dairy products cannot be served at the same meal. Food which conforms with these restrictions is called 'kosher.' Although many hotels and restaurants — and all major supermarket chains — do adhere to these dietary laws, non-kosher food and restaurant meals are generally available in most parts of Israel.

THE SABBATH AND HOLIDAYS

The Sabbath (Hebrew: Shabbat), Israel's day of rest, commences at sundown on Friday evening and concludes at nightfall on Saturday. Jewish holidays also commence on the preceding evening and end at night. All (Jewish) shops, businesses, offices and institutions are closed on the Sabbath and major Holidays. Most public transport ceases and many places of entertainment close as well, although taxi service is available and some restaurants, cinemas and nightclubs remain open.

The Hebrew calendar is based on the lunar year, and Jewish Holidays fall on different Gregorian dates each year (see Table 2: Jewish Holidays: 1993-1997 in the Ready Reference Guide, p. 42).

THE ARTS

A monthly calendar of performances, exhibitions and events is available at TIOs (see p. 36) and at major hotels.

Museums, Art Galleries and Artists' Colonies

Both modern and classical works are on display at Israel's numerous museums and art galleries. Major museums include: Jerusalem: The Israel Museum, including the Shrine of the Book, which houses the Dead Sea Scrolls.

Tel Aviv: The Tel Aviv Museum; The Museum of the Jewish Diaspora (Beth Hatefutsoth); The Eretz-Israel Museum complex.

Haifa: The Maritime Museum; The Museum Centre, specialising in ancient and modern art and ethnology. Scores of other museums in urban areas and rural villages display local archaeological finds, ancient glass, coins, folk costumes and natural history collections, as well as contemporary art and hundreds of other fascinating items. Artists' colonies have developed in En Hod village (near Haifa), Zefat (Safed) and Yafo (Jaffa), with picturesque studios open to the public. In Jerusalem, there is a small artists' colony in the Yemin Moshe quarter, while Huzot Hayozer and the Jerusalem House of Quality feature studios and a wide variety of art galleries and crafts shops.

Concerts

The renowned Israel Philharmonic Orchestra performs under the baton of distinguished conductors and features world-famous guest artists. The Jerusalem Symphony Orchestra offers a weekly concert during the winter season. Other frequently-performing ensembles include the Haifa Symphony Orchestra, The Ramat Gan Orchestra, the Israel Sinfonietta of Be'er Sheva and the Israel Chamber Ensemble, as well as several outstanding trios and quartets.

Theatre

The Habimah and Cameri Theatres of Tel Aviv, the Haifa Municipal Theatre and other companies perform throughout the country. Their repertoires comprise a variety of classical and contemporary works translated into Hebrew, as well as original Israeli dramas. Simultaneous translation into English is available at some performances (at extra cost). Smaller companies often stage productions in English, Yiddish, Russian and other languages.

Dance

Israel has three major dance troupes: the Israel Classical Ballet and two modern dance companies, Bat-Sheva and Bat-Dor, which perform regularly throughout the country.

Festivals

The Israel Festival, centred in Jerusalem, takes place each spring, with the participation of the country's leading musical and dramatic talent and world-famous visiting companies and artists.

The En Gev Music Festival is held during the Intermediate Days of Passover at Kibbutz En Gev on the Sea of Galilee. Elat, too, holds an annual festival, highlighted by water sports and moonlight pageants, as well as a summer jazz festival. Other events include the annual Carmiel Folk Dance Festival, the triennial International Harp Contest and the Zimriya (International Choir Festival), as well as the Rubinstein Piano Competition, which brings talented young artists from all over the world to Israel.

For further information, consult the Calendar of Events available at TIOs (see p. 36) and most hotels.

ENTERTAINMENT

Nightclubs and Discotheques

Tel Aviv, Israel's round-the-clock city, is the country's main nightlife centre, but nightclubs and discotheques are popular in other parts of the country as well. Some have regular floor shows, while others offer more informal entertainment, with rock, jazz, folk and pop music for your dancing and listening pleasure.

Radio and Television

Radio programmes are broadcast daily in English, Arabic, French, Yiddish, Russian and other languages. There are three daily news programmes in English and French.

Many of the programmes shown on Israel TV are in English, with Hebrew and Arabic subtitles. The IBA News in English is screened nightly on the First Channel at 5:30 PM.

The Second Channel features the MacNeil/Lehrer NewsHour, Nightline and a CNN news roundup. For up-to-date information, consult the listings in the daily newspapers.

Cinema

There are cinemas in virtually all cities and towns in Israel, most of which present three performances a day: at approximately 4:00, 7:00 and 9:00 PM. Hebrew films are subtitled in English and French, while foreign films maintain their original soundtrack, with Hebrew and English (or French) titles.

RECREATION Sports

The Mediterranean coast, the Red Sea beaches of Elat and the Sea of Galilee are ideal for water sports: swimming, surfing, sailing, diving, para-sailing and water-skiing. All major hotels have swimming pools and there are municipal and private pools all over the country. Swimming season lasts all year in Israel: from April to October along the Mediterranean coast and at the Sea of Galilee and throughout the year along the Dead Sea shore and at the Red Sea coast. Visitors are advised to swim only at authorised bathing beaches, which have lifeguard stations and employ colour-coded flags to indicate swimming safety (white - safe; red dangerous; black — absolutely forbidden). Scuba diving and snorkeling are especially popular along the Gulf of Elat; diving centres in Elat hire equipment and provide instruction. Fishing gear can be hired at the Mediterranean and the Red Sea. Please be advised that the Red Sea is a protected area and fishing is therefore restricted to certain locations only.

The Israel Tennis Centre in Ramat Hasharon, near Tel Aviv, has helped place Israel on the international tennis map. Public tennis courts may be found in many cities and towns and several hotels feature tennis courts as well. There is a fine 18-hole golf course at Caesarea and horseback riding clubs may be found in Arad, Be'er Sheva, Caesarea, Elat, Netanya, Vered Hagalil, Jerusalem and other locations. Skiing on the slopes of Mt. Hermon is a favourite winter

Marches, races and swimming meets are organised by various local sports clubs. One annual sports highlight is the colourful and high-spirited Jerusalem March, in which thousands of Israelis and overseas visitors participate, either as individuals or in groups.

Israel's most popular spectator sports are football (soccer) and basketball.

For Nature Lovers

Jerusalem's Biblical Zoo specialises in animals mentioned in the Bible. The Ramat Gan Zoo (near Tel Aviv) includes a Safari Park. Other zoos and animal corners may be found in parks throughout Israel.

Elat boasts one of the few underwater observatories in the world.

Israel's numerous nature reserves offer the visitor an unspoiled view of the region's indigenous vegetation and local and migratory wildlife. Israel is a paradise for birdwatchers in springtime, as so many species pass through the country en route to summer nesting places in Asia and Africa. The Hai Bar Nature Reserve, just north of Elat, is dedicated to restoring Biblical fauna to the region.

For further information, contact the Nature Reserves Authority, 78 Yirmiyahu Street, 94467 Jerusalem, Tel: (02) 387471.

The Society for the Protection of Nature in Israel (SPNI) conducts a variety of scenic nature tours. For information and bookings, contact the SPNI Tourist Service, 4 Hashefela Street, 66183 Tel Aviv, Tel: (03) 337-5063, FAX: (03) 383940.
